LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL
from
THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

To His Excellency, The Honorable Richard W. Riley, Governor of South Carolina, and to The Honorable Members of the General Assembly of South Carolina:

We have the honor to transmit the report of the South Carolina State Library for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1979.

This has been a year of exciting events. The Governor's Conference on Library and Information Services was held in March and was highly successful. The end of the fiscal year also marked the retirement of State Librarian, Estellene P. Walker, after thirty-three years of service to the library system of South Carolina—a system planned and developed under her leadership and which now provides services in all forty-six counties as well as service to the institutionalized and the blind and physically handicapped. The library programs are continuing splendidly under the capable direction of the new director, Betty E. Callahan.

The State Library is also celebrating its Jubilee—commemorating the legislation which established the State Library in 1929 (although state funding was not provided until 1943). Fifty years of efficient, economical and expanding library service to all the people of South Carolina is summarized in this annual report. It is a record of which we are justifiably proud and it is with pleasure that we submit this record of achievement to you.

Respectfully submitted,

CARLANNA L. HENDRICK

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

I. Administration

Agency Director:

The Agency Director is the State Librarian who is responsible for the operation of the South Carolina State Library. She is employed by and is responsible to the Board of the State Library.

A. General Administration

Plans development and extension of library service; establishes and reviews policies; prepares and administers the annual budget; administers State and Federal aid for libraries; promotes the extension and improvement of library service; recommends library legislation.

B. Library Interpretation

Interprets the objectives and functions of the state-wide library program, plans and carries out a state-wide program of publicity and public relations designed to publicize the library and its services to the general public.

II. Technical Services

Acquires and makes available all materials used in the library program; catalogs and classifies books, serials and pamphlets; purchases and receives all materials; receives, stores and distributes periodicals and newspapers, classifies and/or catalogs all State and Federal documents received; prepares all materials for use, and maintains the book collection; is responsible for the microfilming of the entire catalog of the State Library and for maintaining the microfilm editions of the catalogs of the University of South Carolina and Clemson; monitors use of SOLINET computer terminal in both cataloging and reference service.

III. Field Services

A. Fosters the development and improvement of public library services; assists local officials, librarians and citizens through visits, surveys and correspondence; provides consultant service in planning of public and institutional library buildings; advises with architects and librarians on planning new library facilities; plans workshops and training programs; supervises the distribution of State Aid and other grant programs; monitors all local library projects funded from Federal funds administered by the South Carolina State Library.

B. *Career Education

The provision of training opportunities for public and institutional library employees; planning and supervision of the certification program for public librarians.

C. *Library Services for the Disadvantaged

Consultant service to local libraries engaged in, or planning, projects in this area; supervision of local projects; reporting and evaluation of the program.

D. *Film Service

Provision of a film loan service to qualifying public and institutional libraries through a contract with the existing film library at USC; training in use of films as a means of extending the informational resources of the local library.

IV. Reader Services

A. *General Reader Service

Provides reference and research services to State Government, State Government agencies, and to State employees. Maintains and services the ERIC document collection. Selects books and other materials to be added to the general reference collection; prepares and publishes a monthly bibliography of new acquisitions and prepares special bibliographies and checklist of State documents.

B. *Reference and Informational Service

Monitors In-WATS telephone request service from public and institutional libraries; fills reference requests and requests for interlibrary loans for libraries throughout the State; supervision of a TWX network for rapid interlibrary communication; consultant service to local libraries on the maintenance of a strong reference collection; plans and provides workshops to increase the effectiveness of pre-professional library employees engaged in reference service.

V. Service to Blind and Physically Handicapped

Plans and administers library service to the blind and physically handicapped; maintains liaison with the Library of Congress, Division for the Blind; maintains records of the eligible borrowers and of materials and equipment on loan; provides guidance to readers in selection of books; supervises five browsing collections of talking books in local public libraries.

VI. Institutional Service

Plans and administers a program to establish, develop and improve library service in State institutions; supervises the library program in individual institutions and provides consultant service for library development in all institutions.

THE TENTH ANNUAL REPORT THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

July 1, 1978 - June 30, 1979

1979 marks the golden anniversary of South Carolina's present public library program. In 1929 the General Assembly enacted legislation establishing the South Carolina Public Library Association, a state library extension agency which became known as the South Carolina State Library Board. The enactment of this legislation was the culmination of years of effort on the part of educators, rural sociologists, and the lay citizen interested in library service. Unfortunately the great depression which began in the fall of 1929 precluded the State support necessary to establish an office and a program for the new agency. A Board of five outstanding citizens was appointed and this Board sought every opportunity to foster public library service in the state. When the WPA program was initiated, the Board secured approval of a statewide public library project which became an outstanding success and the basis on which the public library program in South Carolina has been developed. During this period the Board was able to bring into the state to survey the public library program an internationally known consultant on rural library service, Dr. Helen Gordon Stewart. As a result of her work in the state, the Citizens Library Association was organized. When the WPA went out of existence in 1943, the state made a small appropriation of $3,000 to fund the library program during the last third of the fiscal year—March through June 1943. The Legislature appropriated $15,000 for the next fiscal year, 1943-44. With these funds an office was established, State Aid to county libraries initiated and a staff of two employed.

The new statewide library program operated from a basement room in the old Richland County Library on the corner of Sumter and Washington Streets. Its staff was made up of one professional librarian and one part-time secretary. Transportation was provided by a station wagon inherited from the WPA and converted into a bookmobile. Total bookstock was 25,888 books which had been transferred from the WPA library project. Out of its total appropriation of $15,000, $8,100 was expended for State Aid to county libraries in which twenty-seven counties participated. There were twelve county libraries with professional librarians, fourteen county libraries established under the WPA program and one regional library. There were 879,794 people in South Carolina without public library service. Per capita ownership of books was .3 and the total expenditure for public library service was fourteen cents per capita.

In the ensuing years the State Library Board, now the South Carolina State Library, made remarkable progress. Basic to this successful program was a master plan for library development which aided in the establishment of county and regional libraries which now serve all of the state's forty-six counties. The development of these county library systems eliminated the expensive duplication of more than one public library supported from tax funds in a single county. The present unified library systems, legally established and in the charge of legally appointed boards, by eliminating expensive overhead and duplication, sharing resources and personnel, have been able to provide a good level of service.

One of the problems which the State Library had to solve was that of professional staff for the public and institutional libraries of the state. In 1943 there were only twenty-six professionally trained librarians in all of the public libraries and none in institutional libraries. In 1979 there are 150 fully trained professional librarians in the state's thirty-nine public library systems and the institutional libraries are in the charge of qualified staff. This dramatic improvement is directly due to the State Library's statewide recruiting program, library intern program, and scholarship program.

Library housing was another major problem that had to be solved since in 1943 most public libraries were accommodated in makeshift quarters inadequate to provide anything but minimum service. In the ensuing thirty-six years every county in the state has renovated or constructed new public library housing. These buildings have included headquarters buildings as well as branch buildings in major county communities. Beginning in 1968 the Library Services and Construction Act, Title II, provided funds towards the construction, renovation and additions to public library buildings in the state. Twenty-one county libraries benefitted directly from construction grants. South Carolina's handsome State Library building was constructed under this program.

When the State Library program was initiated, per capita ownership of books in the state was very low—.3 per capita. The total bookstock in all public libraries was 620,550. Today that figure is 3,791,964 and the per capita bookstock has risen to 1.46 per capita, still far below the two per capita goal set by the State Library but an impressive gain over the .3 figure. State Aid, and since 1956 Federal Aid under the Library Services and Construction Act, has contributed largely to this increase in bookstock. Libraries participated in book collection improvement projects, periodical projects, and other book projects designed to help them build well selected collections of books and to maintain them in good condition.

Since its establishment the State Library Board, now the South Carolina State Library, has served as the center for interlibrary loan service to the public and institutional libraries in the state. Through this service, the expensive and the highly technical book is available to the patron of even the smallest library. Financial assistance has been provided to county libraries in developing reference service through special projects in this area including the Carolina Materials Project which supplied one library in each Congressional district with either the original or reprints of the 150 essential books for the study of South Carolina history. Special grants have also been made to libraries serving a metropolitan area in order to assist them in building up a strong central reference collection for the use of the people in the service area.

With funds under the Library Services and Construction Act, it has been possible since 1966 to establish and improve libraries in State-supported institutions. Today all State institutions have well developed programs tailored to meet the needs of their particular clientele.

When the State Library Board was established there was no service for the blind and physically handicapped beyond that available from the Library of Congress in Washington. Through the persistent effort of the State Library, funds were finally secured in 1961 to provide this service through a regional library with North Carolina. In 1973 South Carolina was able to establish its own central library for the blind and physically handicapped. This library now serves the entire state with nearly 7,000 registered borrowers. A total of more than 100,000 books and magazines were supplied to readers during the year.

The South Carolina State Library now provides all the services of a general state library. In its fifty years of service to the State, great improvements have been made in all branches of library service. The extent of service is excellent; the great need is improvement in depth—larger book collections and more staff to serve the public.

READER SERVICES

The Reader Services Department provides assistance in the use of the reference and information resources of the State Library. Members of State government and State agencies make direct use of the library's resources. Citizens of the State have access to the library's services through their local public library.

REFERENCE AND INFORMATION SERVICE TO STATE GOVERNMENT

In 1970, the State Library began its research and information services for State government and State agencies. Previously there had been no agency responsible for providing the current and retrospective information needed to support the research requirements of State government.

Research requests from legislators and State employees cover a wide range of topics, varying from the simple request for a manufacturer's address to extensive research on alternative energy sources. A staff of highly trained reference librarians is available to assist researchers in making efficient use of the State Library's resources. The State Library's collection of books, microforms, and journals has been expanded to support the research needs of State government. The collection is particularly strong in the areas in government, social sciences, and current affairs. The development of this central collection prevents the needless duplication of expensive research materials in other state agencies.

Specialized collections are developed in cooperation with other State agencies. In 1971, the State Library in conjunction with the State Department of Education began receiving the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) collection of documents on microform. This definitive collection now includes over 160,000 reports used by individuals over the entire State in the improvement in educational methods. This year the State Library in cooperation with the Commission on Aging initiated plans to receive a comprehensive collection of research documents in the field of aging from the Service Center for Aging Information (SCAN).

The State Library is the regional depository for South Carolina of materials from the Foundation Center in New York. The collection is an excellent source for individuals and organizations seeking grants from philanthropic foundations. During the year, the State Library published and distributed the South Carolina Foun- dation Directory, which contains information on 200 South Carolina foundations.

In a continuing effort to inform State officials and employees of the library's services, 18 orientation programs were conducted during the year. The State Library also publishes monthly New Resources for State Government and State Agencies, a selective listing of recent items added to the collection.

Library use statistics demonstrate the success of the library's many services. In 1970-71, the first full year of operation, 2,170 books were borrowed by State personnel and 640 reference questions were answered. During 1978-79, 19,263 books were borrowed and 5,657 reference questions were answered. These statistics represent a 900 percent increase in the use of the State Library during the past eight years.

LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE SERVICE

In January 1974 the State Library began a special information service for members of the General Assembly. A librarian from the State Library works closely with legislators and committee researchers to identify research needs. The reference staff of the library is available to either perform the needed research or to direct individuals to the best sources of information. Over the years legislators have become more familiar with the service and telephone the library directly with their requests. In the past year, legislators and their researchers borrowed 293 books and submitted 278 reference questions. The State Library also provided 1,730 pages of photocopy in response to reference questions.

REFERENCE AND INTERLIBRARY LOAN SERVICE

The State Library serves as the central unit of a statewide interlibrary loan network which supplements and coordinates library resources in South Carolina. The Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service, drawing on the State Library's research collection of books, periodicals, and microforms, works through local libraries to supply South Carolinians with materials and information. The service was initiated in 1943 with the establishment of the State Library Board's first office. The initial program was designed to supplement the resources and to strengthen the reference services of South Carolina public libraries. The program was expanded in 1970 to include libraries in State operated institutions. The use of the service has increased to a current annual average of 5,000 questions and 20,000 books.

From the beginning, emphasis has been placed on maintaining a high quality of reference assistance while providing rapid and efficient service. To facilitate library communication, the State Library installed teletypewriter (TWX) equipment in 1971. The TWX provides immediate access to Charleston, Florence, and Greenville County Libraries, as well as to major libraries throughout the country. In March, 1974, the library initiated telephone reference and interlibrary loan service via In-WATS line. Public and State institutional libraries were given direct access to the State Library. Their requests can be submitted by telephone, processed quickly, and then filled from the library's collection generally within 24 hours.

The State Library has worked to build a strong collection of in-depth background and technical materials to meet the information needs of South Carolinians. The library has also acted to coordinate its own resources with those of other libraries within the State. In 1972-73 the library microfilmed the complete card catalogs of the University of South Carolina and Clemson University to gain access to the holdings of the State's two major university libraries. In that same year, the State Library filmed its own catalog and placed copies in the Charleston, Florence, and Greenville County Libraries. Copies of the State Library microfilm catalog were distributed in 1974-75 to 35 public libraries in South Carolina. This catalog is updated by an annual microfilmed supplement. Librarians throughout the state use the catalog and its supplement to quickly determine the holdings of the State Library. Loan requests can then be submitted by telephone or TWX. In 1977, the State Library distributed copies of its periodicals holdings list to academic and public libraries in the state.

For more technical and comprehensive requests, requiring access to libraries outside South Carolina, the State Library uses major union catalogs and the bibliographic resources of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET), which the library joined in 1974-75. Through its membership in SOLINET, the State Library has access to a computerized data base of over four million items held by more than 1,500 libraries including 14 South Carolina libraries. The State Library uses its on-line capability to identify locations of books and other materials. Interlibrary loan requests can then be rapidly transmitted by teletypewriter.

The State Library has sponsored numerous workshops in a continuing effort to improve the quality of reference service throughout the state. These workshops have been designed to aid librarians in making the most effective use of their own local and regional resources as well as the supplementary resources of the State Library. Past discussions have centered on such specific topics as the new copyright law as well as on basic reference techniques and materials.

During 1978-79, the Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service received 4,495 In-WATS calls, answered 5,063 reference requests, and supplied 20,804 books and 12,347 pages of photocopy in answer to interlibrary loan requests.

GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS

State documents are the official publications of State government. They provide current statistical information usually not available in other publications and serve as an excellent source for historical research. The State Library began the South Carolina State Documents collection in 1970. In the past no library or agency had attempted to collect these publications. The collection is used extensively by researchers from this State and others. State agencies refer individuals to the State Library to use their publications no longer available for distribution, thereby reducing additional publication costs and unnecessary distribution of State publications. During the year 1,298 publications were added to the collection bringing the total number of documents to 22,049.

Since State documents represent one of the major forms of research produced in South Carolina, it is important that they be preserved and made readily available to the citizens of the state. A State documents depository system is needed to assure the availability of these publications. South Carolina is one of the few states which has not enacted such depository legislation requiring that all State publications be sent to the State Library and other designated libraries in the state. Without such legislation, it is impossible to insure that all current publications are received.

Each year the State Library compiles, publishes, and distributes the Checklist of South Carolina State Publications which lists publications of State governmental departments received by the State Library during the fiscal year.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

The Technical Services Department coordinates the selection, ordering and processing of all materials for the State Library collection, including large type books and audio-visual materials. The bookstock is a one copy, non-fiction collection, except for South Carolina titles. It includes periodicals and newspapers in both paper and microfilm, and services such as ERIC in microfiche. There are separate collections of both Federal and State documents. Additions during the year are as follows:

Item	Additions	Totals
Books .....	5,482	147,606
State documents .....	1,298	22,049
Federal documents .....	6,853	31,799
Microfilm (reels) .....	1,295	9,763
Microfiche .....	23,935	157,545

The fourth supplement to the microfilm edition of the State Library's card catalog was prepared and prints were sent to holders of the original edition, Area Reference Resource Centers and county and regional libraries. This was a cumulative supplement and included all cataloging since the original edition.

The complete list of South Carolina State Library Periodical Holdings which was compiled in 1977 was brought up-to-date with current holdings. The list was distributed to State agencies and to public and academic libraries throughout the state.

A major undertaking this year was a complete inventory of the State Library's book collection. Since this collection is for reference and research and is housed in closed stacks, the inventory revealed very little loss.

FIELD SERVICES

The legislation enacted in 1929 establishing the State Library Association, better known as the State Library Board, charged the new agency with the responsibility of creating and improving public libraries over the entire state. One of the chief instruments through which this charge has been carried out has been the Field Services Program, a program consisting of a single field worker in 1943 and today numbering five consultants, one of whom works full-time in the area of children's services. These consultants are assigned to specific county and regional libraries. Through advice on a one-to-one basis, correspondence, surveys, meetings and workshops, they have provided assistance to local librarians, library boards, and local citizens, and have been available for consultation on all types of public library problems. The work of the Field Services Staff has resulted in expanded and improved service for all the people of the state. Field Service Librarians also supervise the administration of State Aid to county and regional libraries and of all local projects funded through Federal funds administered by the State Library. During fiscal 1978-79, the Field Service Librarians:

- worked with 39 systems serving 46 counties of the state
- made 176 field trips
- attended 59 local library board meetings
- monitored library budgets including approximately $8 million in local funds
- administered $1,295,258 in State Aid grants to public libraries
- supervised LSCA projects providing approximately $602,899 in grants-in-aid
- represented the State Library at local, state, and national conferences, conventions, workshops, professional associations, building dedications, civic organizations, and other state and local meetings
- provided recruiting, placement, and training services for public librarians.

STATE AID FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES

Administered by the State Library, the program of State Aid for county and regional libraries is as old as the State Library program itself. Established in 1943 when the State Library Board opened its first office, it has resulted in the extension and improvement of public library service in all counties of the state. Originally set at $300 annually for qualifying county libraries, State Aid is now funded at 50¢ per capita and grants range from McCormick's $2,784 to Charleston's $87,578. The benefits of the entire program have been exceptional. County libraries, in meeting the requirements for participation in the State Aid program, have met the requirements of legal establishment, sound fiscal policies, and extension of library service to all members of the community. The State Aid program has been basic in the development of public library service in South Carolina and has provided the incentive for the establishment of county and regional systems which now serve the entire state.

The regulations under which the State Library administers the State Aid program insure that State funds will not replace local funds and that State funds will be used to achieve a higher standard of public library service in every county of the state. With State Aid funds, public libraries have been able to employ better qualified staff, to develop book collections of high quality and carry out special programs to enrich the quality of life in the communities they serve.

FEDERAL AID TO SOUTH CAROLINA LIBRARIES

Public libraries of South Carolina have benefitted from the Library Services (and Construction) Act since 1956 and institutional libraries since 1966. Originally intended to develop public library service in rural areas, the purposes of LSCA now encompass the improvement and extension of public library service in both rural and urban areas, the improvement of library services for certain priority groups, the construction of public library buildings, and promotion of interlibrary cooperation among all types of libraries.

Federal aid has been used in South Carolina to supplement and reinforce State Aid to libraries, to provide incentive for improved local support, and to provide a better level of service for all South Carolinians. A major objective has been the extension of service to the unserved and the inadequately served. In 1956 78% of the population had access to some form of public library service. Today every South Carolinian has access to public library service. LSCA grants have helped develop library systems large enough to provide an adequate level of service. During the past twenty-five years, LSCA grants aided in the establishment of eight unified county library systems and two multi-county regional library systems as well as the reorganization and upgrading of three existing county systems. All forty-six counties in the state now have legally established unified county library systems providing county-wide library service.

The Library Services and Construction Act has aided in collection development, having added more than one million books and over 2100 annual periodical subscriptions to South Carolina library resources. It has helped improve the quality of library personnel by funding recruiting and scholarship programs, salary grants, and in-service training. At least thirty-six persons were awarded graduate library scholarships to prepare for work in South Carolina libraries, and some five hundred librarians and staff members have participated in in-service training activities.

LSCA Title II, the construction grant program, was funded only from 1964 to 1973, but fifteen county library buildings, seven branch libraries, and the State Library were constructed with the aid of Title II funds.

Because of LSCA, libraries are reaching out to help the culturally disadvantaged, the functionally illiterate, and the isolated people who need special services. Between 1956 and 1979, State institutions providing library service to residents increased from two to thirty-two. The number of blind and physically handicapped South Carolinians receiving library service grew from fewer than 600 to more than 6,500.

An important aspect of the Library Services and Construction Act has been the encouragement of interlibrary cooperation. Title III programs have helped build an active library network which promotes communications, bibliographic access, interlibrary loan, in-service training, study and planning. The resulting coordination of library resources helps eliminate expensive duplication of materials and makes the state's library resources available to all South Carolinians.

FILM PROGRAM

The State Library's 16mm film program was established in 1974, to strengthen and expand resources of South Carolina public and institutional libraries. The films are documentary/informational films on an adult level and are used by public and institutional libraries to meet the informational needs of library patrons. The collection includes some 925 films and is updated by constant additions. A frequently revised catalog of the collection is provided for ease in using this service.

To avoid expensive duplication of personnel and equipment, the State Library contracts with the Instructional Services Center of the University of South Carolina to house, maintain and distribute the films. The annual contractual price increased from $9,000 in 1974 to $12,000 in 1978.

Since the program began, the State Library has conducted two statewide and four regional workshops. The number of libraries participating in the program has increased from 31 in 1974 to 43 in 1979.

A total of 3,824 film programs reached an audience of 86,087 patrons this year.

CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR LIBRARIANS

The State Library has always recognized the need for well-trained personnel in providing good library service. A program for aid to students to attend graduate courses in librarianship was first established in 1951. The basic goals and requirements developed at that time have been retained and incorporated into all related programs over the years. Basic elements of the program included that the grant recipient be employed in a South Carolina library and that upon completion of their educational program, they would work in a South Carolina public library for at least two years.

The passage of the Library Services Act in 1956 made possible the development of a continuing education program which included the internship program, the scholarship program, and the in-service training program. The scholarship program was begun in 1958 to attract qualified people into the public library program, assist with their graduate library school training and then place them in professional positions. The first scholarships were awarded to six Senior interns who spent a part of their year working in a library and part of the year attending graduate library school. The Junior intern program was developed in conjunction with the scholarship program and allowed juniors and seniors in colleges and universities to work for the three summer months in a public library where they could discover their career potential for librarianship. Many of these Junior interns went on to graduate library school, some as scholarship recipients and some on their own. One of the criteria for the scholarship grant was a three-month internship in a public library. A total of 214 young people participated as interns between 1958 and 1973 when that program ended. Scholarships of $2500 each to attend graduate library school were awarded to 42 people between 1960 and 1972. Following graduation, the scholarship recipients were pledged to work for at least two years in a South Carolina public library. While there are other factors involved in the growth of professional personnel in the public libraries, some of the effects of the scholarship program are evident in that growth. The number of professional personnel working in South Carolina public libraries grew from 46 in 1956 to 150 in 1979.

Another facet of the continuing education program has been that of in-service training which was also begun in 1958 and continues up to the present time. Scholarship grants are awarded to public and state institutional librarians, both professional and non-professional, to attend academic courses in librarianship and library institutes and seminars. The program also provides for workshops arranged by the State Library when the need arises and they are not otherwise available. Public library trustees receive similar scholarships for study. In 1978-79, three non-professional librarians representing three county library systems received scholarships to attend courses in cataloging and classification, children's literature and production of audio-visual materials.

Members of the State Library staff also benefitted from this program during the past year. A member of the reference department attended an institute on The Structure and Governance of Library Networks, a member of the technical services department attended the International Conference on Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, II, and two technical services staff members attended a conference on the Southeastern Library Network. Two members of the staff of the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped attended the National Conference of Librarians Serving the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

In April 1979, the State Library sponsored a Workshop on Bibliotherapy attended by 32 librarians representing both institutional and public libraries, local hospitals and the South Carolina Department of Education.

Significant progress has been made in providing public and institutional libraries with better trained personnel but there are still unfilled needs in the library education program. The professional librarian needs courses at the graduate level and pre-professional staff at the undergraduate level. Orientation programs for newly appointed trustees also need to be developed.

LIBRARY SERVICE FOR THE DISADVANTAGED

Early in 1971, the State Library began a program to establish public library service for the disadvantaged throughout the state. Five pilot projects, three designed to serve the rural disadvantaged and two designed to serve the urban disadvantaged, were funded to explore means of serving the disadvantaged which could be developed satisfactorily, to test techniques and materials, and to learn through experience how to prepare for a larger program in 1971-72. The successful pilot projects, which reached many previously unserved people in each community, encouraged other libraries to provide programs. Grants ranging from $2,000 to $12,000 were made to twenty-one libraries in 1971-72. Priorities for grants were based on percentage of disadvantaged in the county's population and were focused on service to either urban disadvantaged or rural disadvantaged until 1977 when this project division was eliminated. The Staff Salary Project provided grants for a beginning salary for professional librarians either to work directly with the disadvantaged or to free other staff members to work in that area. Salary grants have now been replaced by local funding. A Materials Project established an examination collection of printed materials and a collection of sound filmstrips, tapes, and cassettes for the disadvantaged which were available for inter-library loan to libraries with Disadvantaged Projects. The sound-filmstrip collection was greatly enlarged and is now available through interlibrary loan to all public and institutional libraries in South Carolina. An A-V Project for the Disadvantaged provided grants for participating libraries to purchase much needed audio-visual equipment and begin basic collections of audio-visual materials. In 1977 the County Up-Grade Project was added to assist new or weak county library systems to develop minimum levels of service and the financial support pre-requisite for service to the disadvantaged.

Twenty-five county and regional library systems received grants-in-aid to establish and expand library service to the disadvantaged in South Carolina in 1979. These grants enable participating libraries to employ personnel, provide transportation, develop collections of reading and audio-visual materials, and purchase special equipment needed to implement service to the disadvantaged. Through one of the grants a county library was organized in a county with a high percentage of disadvantaged in its population.

Thirty-nine audio-visual titles were purchased for the State Library's materials collection. During 1979 1,341 filmstrips were loaned to county and institutional libraries.

INSTITUTIONAL LIBRARY SERVICES

From the time the old State Library Board began operation in 1943, some service was provided to State institutions. Since funds were limited this service consisted largely of advice, field visits, book deposits and some on-the-spot help with difficult problems. Only State Hospital, State Park, Florence Boys School and Cedar Springs School for the Deaf and Blind had established libraries.

When institutional service was mandated in 1967 by an extension of the Library Services and Construction Act to include state-supported institutions, amendments to the South Carolina Code of Laws empowered the State Library to "take such action that might be deemed advisable and necessary to establish and maintain adequate library services for institutional residents."

The institutional library program devised by the State Library includes the provision of grants-in-aid for collection development, consultant services, workshops for administrators and library personnel, reference assistance and interlibrary loan services. Thirty-one institutions maintained by eight State departments or agencies now participate in this project, giving library service to some 16,080 residents. Sixteen of these libraries offer full-service programs which support the education, rehabilitation and therapy objectives of their institutions. Ten adult correctional facilities are served from a central library division maintained by the Department.

Five institutions too small to maintain full-service library programs are served by a special project of the State Library. The South Carolina Crippled Children's Convalescent Center receives library service through a three-way contract by which the State Library works through the Florence County Library to serve this Center. Three addictions centers and a vocational rehabilitation center annually receive collections of paperback books especially selected for their residents' use in therapy or recreation.

LIBRARY SERVICES TO THE BLIND AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

The South Carolina State Library has the responsibility for providing library services to the blind and physically handicapped in the state. This service is provided to those South Carolinians who are unable to read conventional print due to a visual or physical handicap. Books and magazines are available in recorded form (disc and tape), braille, and in large print. Most readers read recorded books and for them the library supplies a sound reproducer (either a talking book machine or a cassette playback machine). The South Carolina State Library administers this service in cooperation with the Library of Congress. Braille service is provided under a contract with the North Carolina State Library.

In fiscal year 1979 the library provided service to 6,849 people, an increase of 1,241 over the previous year. A total of 112,411 books and magazines were borrowed. Not reflected in these totals are many magazines received directly by the readers from the producers under contract to the Library of Congress. Books added to the collection numbered 16,239 volumes.

During 1979 the State Library participated in a limited pilot public education campaign conducted by the Library of Congress. Five radio and five television public service announcements were provided to South Carolina's broadcast media. Personal delivery of these spots, talk show appearances, displays at conventions and at banks, savings and loan associations, and shopping centers helped publicize the availability of special services to the blind and handicapped. Pre- and post-test measurements by the Library of Congress showed an increase in awareness of 17%. Over 200 new readers enrolled in the program as a direct result of this campaign.

Twenty-two South Carolina titles were recorded by volunteers during the year. Books recorded by volunteers in other states were also added to the collection, thus offering our readers a greater variety of reading matter.

Since service is chiefly a mail order service from Columbia, a quarterly large print newsletter and an In-WATS telephone line serve as major avenues of communication. Each new reader is contacted by his county library to determine if all equipment sent to him arrived safely and if the reader understands how the program operates. In six county libraries, Anderson, Charleston, Florence, Greenville, Richland and Spartanburg, the State Library maintains browsing collections of several hundred recorded books. The State Library encourages county libraries to consider the needs of the handicapped in local programming.

The major event of the year was the move of the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped to larger, comfortable quarters at 700 Knox Abbott Drive in Cayce, South Carolina. It is hoped that expanded service can be provided from the new building.

In 1961 North and South Carolina established a regional library for the blind to bring service closer to patrons. The regional library operated successfully until 1973 when separate libraries were established in both states.

In retrospect many exciting things have happened since September 1973 when the State Library first began providing this service directly. At that time approximately 1,800 people were using the service. Today that figure has increased to 6,849, an increase of 280%. The book collection at that time consisted of approximately 10,000 books, most of which were on phonograph record. Today's collection is over 64,000 volumes of records, tapes, and large print. There was no volunteer book recording program then. Now South Carolina's handicapped citizens can read books about their state because of an active volunteer program.

These past six years have seen an increase in awareness of this program. This is due partly to an active outreach program with public libraries and many agencies, both public and private. Through these efforts the State Library hopes to reach all potential users of this service.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA GOVERNOR'S CONFERENCE ON LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SERVICES

Plans for a White House Conference on Library and Information Services became a reality in 1976 when funding was provided for governor's conferences to be held in the fifty states and territories during 1977-79 leading to the White House Conference in Washington, D. C., in November of 1979.

South Carolina's Governor's Conference, Senator Arnold S. Goodstein, Chairman, was held in Columbia on March 15-17, 1979. Three hundred official delegates including one hundred librarians and trustees and two hundred citizens representing all segments of their communities joined by seventy-five interested observers met to inform themselves about library needs, resources, and services and to determine a course of action which would focus attention on the development of improved library service which would meet the needs of all South Carolina citizens. Lay people and librarians were involved in all aspects of planning the conference.

Prior to the state conference, ten pre-conferences were held in the regional planning districts throughout the state in order (1) to inform library users, public officials, and citizens about library resources and services (2) to involve these groups in planning for library development; and (3) to prepare delegates for participation in the state conference. These pre-conferences attracted almost two thousand people representing all segments of the community and librarians from all types of libraries.

The state conference opened with a challenge to the conference by Governor Richard W. Riley to think not in terms of "library needs" but of "citizen needs". Senator Major R. Owens of New York State gave the keynote address. The goal of conference participants was the development of resolutions covering all aspects of library service. Senator Goodstein led the final session in which resolutions were debated and put into final form. Resolutions addressed specific areas of need: funding, cooperation, access, resources and services, public relations, and education. They will be forwarded to the appropriate local and state organizations and to the White House Conference for additional discussion and debate. Finally, Senator Goodstein summarized conference activity and issued a plan of action for implementation of the resolutions.

SOLAR TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER PROJECT

In an effort to increase public awareness and understanding of the uses of solar energy, the South Carolina State Library participated in the Solar Technology Transfer Project during 1978-79. Funded by the U. S. Department of Energy, sponsored by Oak Ridge National Laboratory, and directed by the Southeastern Library Association, the Project was designed to utilize existing public libraries to disseminate information on solar energy to both the layman and the professional.

Following a state-level conference on August 1 and 2 of energy decision-makers who recommended that the State Library and the Governor's Energy Management Office cooperate fully to disseminate information on all types of energy, a series of workshops for public librarians was conducted in Greenville, Columbia, and Charleston on September 12, 13, and 14. Solar information kits were placed in all county library headquarters. Through a special grant of $1,000, an extensive collection of technical data on solar energy was acquired by the State Library to supplement the existing collection. This information is available to all public libraries through interlibrary loan.

LIBRARY LEGISLATION

Three bills pertaining to libraries were introduced in the 1979 General Assembly. Each one has passed the Senate and now awaits House action in 1980. S 334 specifies that concealment or removal of a book or other library property constitutes larceny and authorizes detention of the perpetrator for purpose of arrest. This security legislation is essential for libraries having electronic security systems in order that employees may not be civilly liable for stopping patrons in the library. The bill is ready for introduction in the House.

S 348 and H 2389, the Documents Depository legislation, names the South Carolina State Library as the central depository of State documents, enables the State Library to establish a system of depository libraries in the state, and requires State agencies to deposit documents in the State Library for the depository program. These bills will provide for bibliographic control of State documents and make possible free and easy access to such documents by citizens of the state. The Senate passed S 348, but H 2389 has been delayed by amendments and is on the House contested calendar with objections.

S 438, concerning State Library Board appointments, will amend the current law to provide staggered appointments to the Board. This bill has been introduced in the House and referred to the Education and Public Works Committee.

PUBLIC LIBRARY CONSTRUCTION

Since 1968 the Library Services and Construction Act Title II (Public Library Construction) has provided $2,607,151 toward construction, renovation, and additions to public library buildings in the state. Federal funds were matched with a total of $5,770,060 during that time. Together with revenue sharing grants and $1,010,348 from the Appalachian Regional Development Association, the total public library construction budget for the last ten years amounted to $9,387,559.

Although the State Library no longer has federal funds to aid in public library building programs, it does provide a valuable service to local library systems planning new construction, renovations, or additions. When requested to do so, the Field Staff provides consultant service on library building planning, and reviews schematic plans, working drawings and specifications. During 1979 the following public library buildings were either completed, under construction, or in the planning stage.
